

Debbie Fraser Inducted as a Fellow in the Canadian Academy of Nursing

Each year, the Canadian Academy of Nursing Fellowship Program of the Canadian Nurses Association honors nursing leaders throughout Canada. These are nurses who are leaders in academia, administration, clinical practice, policy, and research. Each nurse selected embodies the very best in nursing whatever the domain.

The Academy of Neonatal Nursing is honored to announce the induction of our Executive Director, Debbie Fraser, MN, NNP, CNEON(C), FCAN on October 14, 2022, as a Fellow in the Canadian Academy of Nursing.

We celebrate Deb's induction into this prestigious organization and honor her work not only with the Academy of Neonatal Nursing (ANN) and Neonatal Network: The Journal of Neonatal Nursing, but also with St. Boniface NICU, Athabasca University, the International Council of Nursing, The Canadian Association of Schools of Nursing, and ALIGNN. Deb's focus throughout her career has been to promote excellent nursing care. She has done this through her positions in academia, ANN, Neonatal Network, and as a neonatal nurse practitioner at the bedside.

We warmly congratulate Deb on this achievement.
